

Vertical Lift:

Vertical Lift:

The most common commercial door configuration. In the open position the door goes straight up the wall sometimes breaking away at the top. This configuration allows a sectional door to open vertically along the wall above the door opening without turning back inside the building.